BiblioGov. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 28 pages. Dimensions: 9.7in. x 7.4in. x 0.1in. Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO reviewed the U. S. Postal Services (USPS) Marketing and Customer Service Groups end-of-fiscal-year spending practices, focusing on whether the Groups spending patterns were similar to other federal agencies that made obligations in the final days of the fiscal year to avoid a loss of budget authority and reduce the likelihood of future appropriation cuts. GAO found that: (1) 18 percent of the Groups 1990 expenditures occurred in the last 4-week accounting period of the fiscal year and 26 percent occurred in the last two periods; (2) if the Group had evenly distributed expenditures, those periods would have accounted for about 8 percent each, or a total of 16 percent, of annual expenditures; (3) the spending pattern occurred in the Groups major expense categories, except personnel costs, which remained relatively constant throughout the year; (4) personnel expenses accounted for 9 percent of the Groups expenditures; (5) goods and services comprised about 87 percent of the Groups budget, with expenditures being heavier in the last one or two accounting periods; (6) 28 percent of travel, 24 percent of supplies, 25 percent of services, and 32 percent of printing expenditures occurred in the last accounting period; (7) USPS believed that only the year-end increase in advertising expenditures was due to an unplanned, end-of-year decision; and (8) the other increases either fit an annual expenditure pattern or were related to items or activities that the Group ordered or initiated earlier in the year. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.
