I am no Hypocrite to deny the satisfaction I reap from the Success of my Efforts. Wounded myself, in the early part of my Life by the envenomed Tongue of Slander I confess I have since known no Pleasure equal to the reducing others to the Level of my own injured Reputation. Verj. Nothing can be more natural--But my dear Lady Sneerwell There is one affair in which you have lately employed me, wherein, I confess I am at a Loss to guess yours motives. Lady Sneer. I conceive you mean with respect to my neighbour, Sir Peter Teazle, and his Family--Lappet. --And has my conduct in this matter really appeared to you so mysterious Exit Maid. 55 Verj. Entirely so. -Lady Sneer. verj. An old Batchelor as Sir Peter was, having taken a young wife from out of the Country--as Lady Teazle is--are certainly fair subjects for a little mischievous raillery--but here are two young men--to whom Sir Peter 60 has acted as a kind of Guardian since their Fathers death, the eldest possessing the most amiable Character and universally well spoken of, the youngest the most dissipated and extravagant young Fellow in the Kingdom, without Friends or character--the former one an avowed admirer of yours and 65 apparently your Favourite, the latter attached to Maria Sir Peters ward--and confessedly beloved by her. Now on the face of these circumstances it is utterly unaccountable to me why you a young Widow with no...
